DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/18/03 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ying et al. USPN 6,300,252.

Ying et al. disclose (see figs. 3-5 and col. 7, lines 4-61) a semiconductor device comprising a substrate; at least one fuse 46 embedded within an interior portion of the substrate; a continuous etch resistant layer 54 comprising silicon nitride (as in claim 7) having a thickness which falls within the recited range (as in claim 8) on an exterior surface of the substrate, wherein the etch resistant layer is directly over an entire surface the at least one fuse; and at least one insulative layer above the etch resistant layer, wherein the etch resistant layer has a slower etch rate than that of the at least one insulative layer thereabove.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ying et al in view of Motsiff et al. US Patent No. 5,731,624.

Ying et al disclose the device structure as recited in the claim, but do not specifically disclose an alignment mark.

Motsiff et al disclose an alignment mark 7 comprising an etch resistant layer (as in claim 3) formed on the substrate at a location spatially removed from a fuse.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Motsiff et al, since that would improve the operability of the melting fuse.

As to claim 4, Motsiff et al disclose a fuse and an alignment mark formed within a metal wiring layer of the device.
